Fallon House 'destruction need not have occurred'

PLEASANTON — After the smoke had cleared and the Jeremiah Fallon House had been reduced to a heap of ashes, Marie Cronin of the Dublin Historical Preservation Society declared that the destruction need not have occurred, had the "destroyers not been so strong-minded and adamant."

Cronin had led efforts to relocate the old home of one of Alameda County's first supervisors to a site along side Old St. Raymond's Church in Dublin.

The move, for which Pleasanton donated $3,000, would have taken place next week, had not the Twin Valley Fire Training Academy burned the old place down in a fire training exercise Friday afternoon.

Though some members of the valley community wondered whether the bonfire had taken the old structure — nearly destroyed by vandalism over the years — out of its misery, Cronin said the Fallon House "really warranted saving."

No one is quite sure why firefighter trainees set fire to the Fallon House in the first place. The structure seems to have been mistaken for one of the other ramshackle, less historically significant houses on the Stoneson Development Company property south of Interstate 580 in Pleasanton.

But even so, Cronin said the fire officials had several opportunities both before and during the practice burn to call the exercise to a halt.

Valley Community Services District Fire Chief Phil Phillips was at the scene before the exercise began. "I asked Pleasanton Fire Captain (George Withers) if the building was the Fallon House. He told me no, and I was satisfied. I'd never seen the Fallon House before so I didn't give it any further thought," Chief Phillips said.

A report issued by Pleasanton Fire Prevention Officer Ted Klenk, who selected the site, and Withers noted that after several such inquiries by observers, Klenk and "someone from the City Building Department (were) dispatched to verify the house as the one in question."

But Cronin said all the officials would have had to do was place a call by radio to the City of Pleasanton. "Everyone knew about our plans for the house," Cronin said. "We'd had a meeting with Assistant City Manager Alan Campbell on Wednesday to set final details of the move."

"If at 2 o'clock they'd taken two minutes out to check — if they had made any attempt at all to find out about the building this wouldn't have happened," she said.

By the time she arrived at the scene, the house was ablaze. Cronin tried for fifteen minutes, she said, to get the fire officials to halt the exercise. "They told me they had to go through with it, that the house had been abandoned and was a menace," Cronin explained. "Finally I told them I'd call the cops if they didn't put it out," she said, "and then Withers gave the order to stop."

The official report noted that Klenk returned after verifying the house "as the one in question" just before Mrs. Cronin, "who verified that the Duarte house and the Fallon home were the same."

"The fire was extinguished at this point to save the remaining portions of the house," the report concluded.

Cronin said the Dublin Historical Preservation Association hopes to learn why the firefighters went through barricades, ignored warnings on the site, and failed to follow legal procedures.

"We're concerned that this doesn't happen again," Cronin said. "We hope the City of Pleasanton will take some constructive measures to make sure it doesn't."

The DHPA would like to hold on to the $3,000 Pleasanton contributed to move the house to Dublin. Cronin would like to see the funds put toward commemorating the life of Jeremiah Fallon, a rescuer of the Donner Party. "We can use those funds constructively to tell about the area's heritage," she said.

Ironically, in 1960 the Old St. Raymond's Church narrowly escaped destruction in a similar fire training exercise planned by the Pleasanton Fire Department.

Cronin said the Pleasanton Fire Department had decided to burn down the church in a practice fire drill. Only the efforts of Alma Cronin Hall to secure a cease and desist order at the eleventh hour saved the structure.

In 1962 the Amador Valley Historical Society took on the restoration of the church which is now the cornerstone of a heritage center to be developed off Donlon Way in Dublin.

Before coming to its ignominious end, the Jeremiah Fallon House had been slated for relocation there.

More than $30,000 in grant monies had been allocated to the Fallon House for reconstruction. Cronin said it was not known yet whether the funds can be retained for other historical projects.

"The money's not the issue at this point," she said. "The fire — and how this could have happened — is what we're concerned about now."

Fire brings discipline, more controls

PLEASANTON — The city council gave deep apologies for the accidental burning of the Fallon House last night to the Dublin Historical Preservation Association and the public.

Then the council talked of doing something positive to make up for the loss of the 100-year-old building which was slated to be moved soon to a proposed complex of four historical buildings on Donlon Drive in Dublin.

There was talk of giving the association money to build a replica of the house at the proposed historical complex, a suggestion which came from local historian Marie Cronin. Two council members will meet with Cronin to pursue the idea.

Some $3,000 already was committed by the city for restoring the Fallon House, the amount to be reimbursed by Stoneson Development Corp., which bought the Fallon property as part of the future subdivision.

At the council's request city manager Bill Edgar said he would ask Stoneson to give the money to the DHPA.

The council also directed Edgar to prepare a fool proof procedural system so there will be no accidental burns in the future.

Every practice burn will be approved by the city council and the city manager and the property owner will have to be on the site to point out the house which is supposed to be burned.

Fireman Jim Glockner told the council that the rank and file firefighters have been taking undeserved criticism for the Fallon burn. No paid Pleasanton firefighters were present at the burn which was run by a firefighters training association.

Ted Klenk and George Withers were the two fire department officials responsible for authorizing the burn despite protests on the scene from Cronin, Herald and News reporter John Oliver, who photographed the Fallon House over the past two years, and VCS Fire Chief Phil Phillips, according to testimony to the council last night.

Councilman Frank Brandes thought Withers and Klenk should be fired, or at least demoted for their action. He got some applause from the audience, but no council members agreed.

Instead the council backed Brandes' subsequent call for a report from Edgar on what disciplinary action, if any, will be taken about the two fire officials who already have received oral reprimands from Edgar.

Zero tax hike is Brandes goal

PLEASANTON — Councilman Frank Brandes isn't happy with the city's proposed five cent tax increase and like his colleague, Ken Mercer, hopes to reduce it to zero increase by the time the final version rolls around in August.

There's a chance they might get a third vote for that zero increase from William Herlihy, according to an informal survey of most council members by The Times.

Herlihy told The Times he "would have preferred to see the budget put together on the current tax rate." He suggested reducing City Manager's proposed budget by 5 per cent, with the cuts up to Edgar. The net effect of the 5 per cent cut would have been a zero tax increase, said Herlihy. (Edgar's budget had recommended an eight cent tax increase.)

Although Brandes voted last week for the five cent increase, he said that he "positively is not satisfied" about it. He emphasized that the budget is only preliminary.

The important thing which happened last week was that a council majority at least agreed to a 7 per cent reserve for next year, said Brandes. Now the council can go from there and, he hopes, do some trimming to eliminate that proposed five cent increase.

Among the trimming he would like to do is three administrators: the deputy city attorney, an assistant to the city manager, and the director of public safety. He also would like to turn off 20 per cent of the street lights to save what he estimates would be $30,000.

Brandes was happy the council cut the drain from the capital improvement funds over to the operating expenses column. The city has been financing salaries and other operating expenses for 10 years with this kind of bookkeeping and it's time to quit robbing Peter to pay Paul, he felt.

"It's tough times when you are taking money out of capital improvements," he said. "It's a legal form of deficit financing."

City Manager Bill Edgar had suggested transfer of $376,000 from capital improvements this year. The council cut it back to $120,000, or by about two-thirds. Brandes would like to see it eliminated totally, but realistically he'd be happy to keep it at $120,000 this year and eliminate "fat" in operating areas so there won't have to be a five cent boost.

Brandes would like to see the public out in big numbers at any future public hearings on the budget to support the notion of no tax increase in the coming year.

Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire said she was satisfied with the results of last week's work session on the budget. "Some positive steps were taken to reduce the amount of transfers from capital improvements. We kept the amount of the tax increase down to the bare minimum without significant harm to level of service offered now," she said.

"I think most people are aware of the incredible rate of inflation everyone has been under. I don't think they can expect the city to maintain service without some increase," she said.

The proposed budget has no new money to add police and fire personnel, though everyone on the council agrees they are needed. LeClaire and Herlihy feel it will be up to the voters to decide about police and fire personnel through their vote on a tax override.

It's true that such a measure failed in the spring in Livermore, but that city may have been asking for too much money and a trim version of it should pass in Pleasanton, said LeClaire.

Hills school 'typical' budget victim

Typical of the schools caught up in budget cuts of the past three years is Vintage Hills School in Pleasanton.

According to Doug Rose, assistant superintendent for business services, the smallest school (in enrollment) in the Pleasanton district "has suffered through three years of budget cutting since it opened in temporary quarters in 1973. Its total allocation of funds has been reduced 20.8 per cent; its allocation per student is down 33.6 per cent; and its enrollment is up 24.4 per cent."

Rose and the rest of the Pleasanton administration believes that further cuts will be necessary if the revenue increase measure is not passed June 8. Both Pleasanton and Amador have tax hike measures on the ballot, the latter designated as Measure A and Pleasanton's as Measure B.

Pleasanton is asking for a raise of 81.8 cents (per $100 assessed valuation) over a two-year period. What the ballot proposes is that next year the district have an additional $79.81 added to the revenue limit to meet the purported inflationary costs of operating the schools. This would increase the current operating tax by 44.7 cents.

For 1977-78, an additional $79.80 would be added to the revenue limit increasing the tax rate 37.1 cents the second year. This means, then, that these $79 units would be added to the current revenue limit of $986.75, according to figures supplied by the school district, for the next two years to maintain the existing program.

The district has two tax rates. One is for operation of the district and the second is for capital improvements. The general fund operating tax includes the general purpose tax for education, an area-wide tax to equalize the first dollar of local tax funds for failure to unify with Sunol Glen and Murray school districts.

Additionally, a community service tax is levied to pay for the community uses of the facilities of the district (5 cents). An example of a prospective use is one being sought by the Foothill High School Boosters. The group has asked the Amador board to put $50,000 (of an approximate total of $100,000) towards drawing of plans and specifications for a lighted football field at the school. The board has agreed to do this and an architect, Ronald Martyn, has already commenced work on the project.

Capital improvement taxes are for repayments to the state for funds previously borrowed under the School Building Program and to pay off the local bonded indebtedness for school construction.

The district, through a host of fact sheets, has estimated what it (the revenue increase measure) will cost the owners of homes valued at $40 through $70,000.

The county assessor assesses the value of a house at 25 per cent of its market value, according to Rose. The increase in the tax necessary to support the revenue increase would be applied to the assessed valuation of a house to generate the additional monies necessary under the new tax rate.

For example, a $40,000 house assessed at the 25 per cent rate would have an assessed valuation of $10,000. This assessed value times $.00447 means that the tax on that house would increase $44.70 during 1976-77, or $3.73 per month. Similar increases would occur on houses of greater or lesser worth.

For a $50,000 house assessed at 25 per cent ($12,500), the annual tax on that house would increase $55.88 or $4.66 a month. For a $60,000 house, the hike would be $67.05 or $5.59 a month.

In an attempt to get their message across to as many disparate groups as possible, the revenue increase committees for the two districts have scheduled additional informational meetings this week.

Tonight, Bob Hagler, principal at Dublin High School, is slated to speak before the Donlon School PTA at 8 p.m. Donlon is located in the Val Vista section of Pleasanton at 4150 Dorman Road.

Tomorrow, Pleasanton trustee Karen Finn will meet with the "Y" Wives at 10 a.m. and tomorrow night the Vintage Hills Homeowners and Vintage Hills School PTA have a revenue increase presentation slated for 8 p.m. at the school.

Couple beaten with club by three men

LIVERMORE — Police are searching for three men, one of whom severely beat a man and woman inside her Fifth Street residence early while the other two looked on Sunday.

According to police reports, Donald Joseph Miguel was sleeping when he was struck in the face with a wooden club. He attempted to cover his face but the attacker continued to pummel him, saying "When am I going to get my money back?"

Police said Denise Joanne Bartram, Miguel's girlfriend, was hit just below the left eye by the butt end of the club, and her head was repeatedly shoved against a bed rail. Both victims were taken to Valley Memorial Hospital and treated for severe facial cuts and bruises.

The victims described their attackers as three men known previously to them. The suspects demanded money, and left a telephone number on a blackboard to call when they got the money together.

Police recovered the blackboard, and found a 20-inch club believed to be the weapon used in the attack near the house. An arrest warrant was issued for the suspects yesterday.

Youths arrested during Oslo Court burglary

LIVERMORE — Two youths aged 15 and 16 years were arrested Sunday night after they walked out of an Oslo Court home with their hands full of stolen property, police said yesterday.

Neighbors saw lights in the home, and knowing no one was supposed to be home, called police. Officers surrounded the house and waited until the youths appeared, one from the front door, the second suspect from the rear. Upon seeing police, both suspects dropped the watches, cash, rings and other items they were carrying and were quickly arrested.

Detective Dave Hollander said the 15-year-old had been released from juvenile hall just five hours before the latest arrest after serving time for a previous burglary conviction.

The other youth, aged 16, had been arrested and convicted twice before for burglaries in Livermore. He was convicted for eight residential burglaries on the first arrest, and convicted for a ninth in April.

Police said the pair had taken more than $15,000 in goods during the 10 previous burglaries, of which only a partial amount had been recovered. Police added that the 16-year-old had possessed a handgun in all of the burglaries, and had a .22-caliber handgun with him at the time of Sunday's arrest.

Both youths were booked into Livermore city jail on suspicion of burglary. The 16-year-old was also being held on suspicion he possessed a vial of valium and librium for sale.

Officers Kenneth Gardner, Victor Simard, Robert Stansell, Brian Woodard and Sgt. Jerome Weakland were among those participating in the arrests.

Five juveniles arrested for vandalism on pool

PLEASANTON — Five young boys were arrested Friday after a Windcave Court resident saw them throw rocks at his pool, police reported yesterday.

Barry Wiegler told police he saw rocks hitting his swimming pool and spotted the youths. He apprehended them and called police.

Residents in the Valley Trails and Vintage area have complained in the past of swimming pools and windows being vandalized by rock-throwing youths.

The juveniles, ranging in age from five to eight years, will be referred to minor offense court.

'Overbuilding' center charge

PLEASANTON — Realtor Chris Beratis and his partners are "overbuilding" their Oak Tree Shopping Center, some neighbors charged yesterday.

Beratis and three partners — Barry Spivak, Bill Bardosky and Peter Finegold — received zoning for commercial zoning for the property last December, though they didn't indicate then what type of commercial development would occur.

Charlotte Witke, a resident on Longspur, said that Beratis is "overbuilding" the center and relying on another acre and a half next to it to provide the parking lot for the commercial area.

It's all perfectly legal — Beratis got a conditional use permit to put the parking lot on the acre and a half which is zoned for public and institutional uses.

But the neighbors are upset because they were under the impression last December that Beratis would install a Department of Motor Vehicles office or medical offices or some other office use typical of the public zone.

Beratis was asked about it by The Times yesterday. He would not comment except to say that he would "love to sit down with them and hopefully resolve it before they go to appeal."

"Without those 138 parking spaces (on the acre and a half area), he can't build such a large development," said Witke. In effect, it eliminates what the residents considered the zone's intention, she said.

Another resident, Kay Martin, said the neighbors will meet with Councilman Frank Brandes tomorrow night to express their concerns. She personally doesn't object to commercial development on the corner, but would prefer a big supermarket not go there because it will generate traffic in the evening hours.

She was unhappy that the legal notice which was sent to residents only discussed the conditional use permit for the parking lot. She didn't learn about the shopping center until she called city hall after reading the notice. She thought the city could have mentioned the shopping center in the notice.

Planning Director Robert Harris told The Times that the notice was for a public hearing on the conditional use permit for the parking lot only. He felt that such a notice would generate questions from residents who received it and in fact it did, with at least two residents visiting city hall and reviewing the plans for the 27,000 square foot supermarket and 24,000 square feet of retail shops.

Harris noted that the general plan amendment and rezoning of the property in December also were advertised by published and mailed notices.

"People get a higher degree of notice in this town than in most other towns," said Harris. The state law requires only one form of notice for variances, general plan amendments and rezonings. The city goes it one up and both publishes legal ads and sends letters to persons living with 300 feet of any of those proposed actions. State law requires a letter to residents within 300 feet of a rezoning, he said.

LeClaire's benchmark

Economy and the bottom line

PLEASANTON — City council members came up with a variety of ideas on how to save money in the next fiscal year last week at the final work session on the preliminary budget.

Many of the ideas found only one or two supporters and were shot down in flames, others got support of a majority of council members.

Ken Mercer was the only advocate of abandoning the present city council chambers and finding a cheaper substitute. Mercer contended the city could save $7,200, perhaps even more if the landlord raises the rent at the end of the current year agreement.

Mercer suggested the community building at Amador Community Park as a possible substitute. That suggestion did not sit well with Councilwoman Joyce LeClaire who said she had a theory about comfortable chairs. The city would have to use temporary chairs at the park facility and hard seating like that tends to make the audience go home early, said LeClaire.

The tile walls at the center also would mean bad acoustics while the public is trying to hear the council, said LeClaire. Mercer thought that uncomfortable seating might be a good thing if it led to shorter meetings for all concerned.

Brandes liked the idea of exploring alternatives to the current council chambers at 30 W. Angela, which formerly was the justice court. He voted to keep the building in the budget now, but definitely wants to get a report on alternatives.

Councilman William Herlihy thought that this might be a good time to expand the civic center so that the council chambers could be housed there.

Herlihy made a valiant attempt to keep some traffic lane plastic buttons in the budget, but he was nixed on a 4-1 vote. Herlihy said the buttons would pay for themselves over paint stripes in five years, but no one else went for it.

All councilmembers agreed to drop a proposed $2,500 concrete slab for the city car wash. "We've been washing trucks there for years with no problem," said Philcox.

A requested $3,000 for a gas-fired kiln was cut to $1,500 on a 4-1 vote with LeClaire opposing the reduction. The recreation department will have to count on more donations from community groups than previously anticipated to get the kiln, said Recreation Director Robert Caparuso.

The move got LeClaire in an argument with Mercer over how much the city has done for the arts over the years. Plenty, said Mercer, pointing to the $100,000 cultural arts building as a prime example.

That's only been in the past few years, said LeClaire. In the long run, the city's park and recreation budget has spent much more on sports, she claimed and the city's potter should not be abandoned on this one.

Herlihy and Brandes wanted to save $1,000 by dropping membership in Congress of Valley Agencies, something Herlihy has discussed previously, but the majority objected.

Herlihy thought the city could save $30,000 by dropping out of LAVWMA, too, but no one else agreed. Herlihy told The Times that although LAVWMA is supposed to be a joint powers agreement for a limited time only, he fears that it will become a permanent bureaucracy responsible for administering the proposed sewer line.

Council members varied on their approaches to trimming the budget. LeClaire favored a 1 to 2 per cent across the board cut in City Manager Bill Edgar's proposed budget, saving $38,000.

Herlihy wanted a 5 per cent overall cut, thinking the $200,000 to $300,000 saved would make a difference.

Philcox thought that was good in principle, but felt it necessarily would mean crippling some programs. Edgar said the budget he proposed was the tightest possible with the programs still intact. He echoed Philcox's assertion that $300,000 couldn't be cut and still deliver the same level of service.

Brandes agreed with Herlihy's general outlook, though didn't necessarily endorse a 5 per cent cut. He thought Edgar and the department heads would have to exercise much discretion in where they make cuts.

For example, the department heads should be given so much expense money and dole it out as they see fit, said Brandes. The council should not make that decision for the departments.

The council wound up raising the current $1.81 tax rate by 5 cents, despite the unexpected rise in assessed valuation by 16 per cent this year (8 per cent had been predicted). The greater revenues will be used to stem the flows of money from capital improvements funding over to operating expenses. It won't stop it totally in the coming year, but the council made a commitment to set a total stop as a goal for the future.

The council plans to adopt the preliminary budget tomorrow at its meeting. No date has been set for adoption of the final version of the budget. At least one more public hearing on the budget has been promised.

'Nix land dump of sewage'

LIVERMORE — Archer Futch said last week that Zone 7 should take "immediate action to prohibit any additional land disposal of urban sewage effluent."

Futch is a candidate for the Board of Directors of Zone 7, Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District, and is a former Mayor of Livermore. His stand is unlikely to delight the City of Livermore which has operated a land disposal of effluent program since 1967.

Futch pointed to concentrations of nitrates in the upper water basin that already exceed the safe level for drinking water as recommended by the Public Health Service.

"Nitrate levels in excess of 44 milligrams per liter which exist in a number of areas throughout the valley is a direct result of land disposal of sewage effluent by existing agencies," Futch said.

He noted that nitrate contamination at this level has produced behavioral disturbances and mental deficiencies in some children. When combined with ammonia compounds found in food, Futch said nitrates are a potential hazard to adults.

To protect the underground water supply, a responsibility mandated to the zone by its charter, Futch said additional land disposal should be prohibited.

Land disposal by existing agencies should be phased out, he said, unless "impartial studies show pollution of the underground basin will be minimal."

The City of Livermore has operated a land disposal of treated effluent program at the Las Positas Golf Course since 1967, according to Public Works Director Dan Lee.

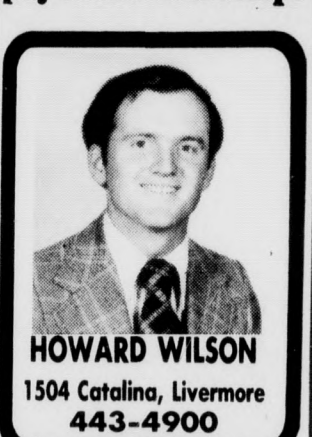

Effluent is sprayed on the golf course every day except during the rainy season. At its peak, 1.5 million gallons of treated effluent are sprayed on the site each day.

Lee said this method of irrigation is used on 70 acres of land at the airport and by the farmer adjacent to the treatment plant.

Livermore also has agreements with Chabot College Valley campus and Cal Trans for land effluent spraying.

Lee said he could see no reason to stop the land disposal program. "It's an acceptable practice," Lee said. "This is a resource we should attempt to use in this valley."

Valley Campus' big buildup

LIVERMORE — Community College District Trustees have approved a preliminary budget of $18.3 million for 1976-77, including an ambitious $1.4 million building program at the Valley Campus.

The tentative budget, up $2.6 million over last year's figure, proposes $15 million for the Hayward campus and $3.3 million for the Valley Campus.

The largest expenditure for the Valley Campus is $1.4 million for physical facilities, including a physical education building, an addition to the science building, and the first third of an Independent Learning Center.

The physical education facility will include men's and women's locker rooms with 160 lockers for each, an equipment room, and an activities room, which can also be used for dances, drama or music productions, or a large lecture room.

Plans also call for an addition to the present science building, and construction of the first third of a planned 18,000 - square foot Independent Learning Center. All structures are slated for occupancy in the Fall of 1977.

Dr. Reed L. Buffington, president of Chabot College, told the board of trustees that the budget contains a great number of unknowns and that a number of changes, particularly regarding revenues, is anticipated.

Among the unknowns are increases to meet long term disability payments, workmen's compensation, student minimum wage, salary increases for staff members, and costs of security personnel and systems.

The preliminary budget anticipates an 8 per cent increase in assessed valuation. An estimated tax rate of 68.7 cents per $100 off assessed valuation, up from 2.5 cents from the present rate, would be required to finance the budget.

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

The debate in the British House of Commons on Feb. 24, 1776 was dominated by the speech of Lord Cavendish, who deplored what he called the "humiliation of depending on mercenaries from petty German states to fight our battles." Cavendish voted against the English treaty with Hesse and Brunswick and called it "a cheap and miserable way to deal with the rebels." The World Almanac reports.

Request to ease burden on congested Vineyard

PLEASANTON — The city council has been asked to cut densities on undeveloped property along Vineyard Avenue and to ban parking from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. on the street's south side in an attempt to alleviate parking and traffic congestion problems.

The planning staff studied the Vineyard Avenue area for the first time since it was in a study district in 1972 and concluded that home construction in Vintage Hills has made the biggest contribution to traffic congestion along Vineyard Avenue.

street. But potential development along Vineyard itself, primarily apartments, can aggravate the problem. Planning Director Robert Harris said in a written report to the city council.

Some 386 units could be developed in the present zoning scheme along the street, but reducing the zoning to low-density multiples and to single family housing on some lots could cut the estimated number of units to 192, said Harris.

The planning commission unanimously concurred with Harris' recommendation at its last meeting and forwarded his report to the city council.

The worst part of the parking problem appears to center around Christina Court. A survey there revealed 33 per cent of the street's residents thought parking is a problem and another 24 per cent on Vineyard Avenue said the same.

The north side of Vineyard Avenue has parking prohibited 24 hours a day and Harris is recommending a ban on the south side of the street from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m. He also thinks that painting the curb red near driveways and intersections will give greater visibility at those entrances to Vineyard Avenue, a lack which Vineyard Avenue homeowners have complained about to the city.

Part of the problem appears to be created by apartment dwellers on the north side of Vineyard Avenue. In one complex, there is a $5 surcharge for the second parking space for a unit and some renters choose instead to park on Vineyard Avenue.

Meet John Murphy

Supervisor John Murphy, candidate for re-election as Alameda County Supervisor, First District, is conducting a round of koffee klatches and open houses to bring his message to the people of the first district.

People who have not had an opportunity to meet or talk with Murphy may do so by calling any of his headquarters for details on the upcoming events to be held in his honor.

Many get-togethers are scheduled in the valley before Primary Day, June 8. For information call Pleasanton headquarters, 800 Main St., 846-8323; Livermore headquarters, 358 South L. St., 443-1122.

Raymond on New Town

In a press release issued recently, Valerie Raymond, candidate for Alameda County Supervisor, First District, reiterated her stand on Geldermann's Las Positas New Town.

She said such a development in an unincorporated area "is unacceptable to me. My position is that urban development should take place only within cities which can provide necessary services under local control. The county should not undermine the cities' efforts to achieve rational and sound planning of their future growth."

Raymond said that for New Town to be successful, it must have the cooperation and support of local districts who will be providing the services. "Support (of Zone 7 and the Livermore Unified School District) is completely lacking in this instance," she said.

Incumbent Supervisor John Murphy, Raymond said, "continues his efforts to force Las Positas on the Livermore valley" in spite of local cities' opposition and disapproval by the Association of Bay Area Governments.

Wirt on strikes

Robert Wirt, candidate for the Republican nomination to the 15th Assembly District seat, has announced his support for legislative action to resolve the problems faced by the public when strikes or other organized labor difficulties affect the vital public agencies of this state.

If elected, Wirt said one of his prime efforts would be to place tax-supported safety and transportation services under the same kind of computer-based computer-price-index management controls "used by the military and academic institutions so successfully in the past."

Wirt said there is no reason to halt police and fire services, transportation systems, public utilities or medical services than "there have ever been in our armed services, universities or research laboratories to shut down over labor difficulties."

Cartoonist upset

Editor, The Times:
The editorial on the front page of the May 19th issue of the Tri-Valley News has really incurred my wrath. I was going to stay out of this whole dirty political campaign but I find this extremely difficult in the light of what the Herald is doing to Don Miller.

About a month ago the Herald and News called me to do "Political cartoons." I went down to the office thinking I was going to be drawing cartoons of Jimmy Carter and His peanut farm. Instead I was told that the Herald was out to get Don Miller because he "had no sense of humor" and they wanted to make him look "a little ridiculous" because "he takes himself too seriously." The Herald was mainly out to get Miller, but they also wanted to get Futch.

I asked if my cartoons should center around the growth issue. Were my cartoons to be pro-growth? No, I was to stay away from growth and concentrate on the matter of having equal representation on Zone 7 for the whole valley and to make it seem like it was wrong to elect all candidates from Livermore. In other words, I was to stay away from the real issue, growth, and help the Herald pump up a whole phony campaign which revolves around equal representation of the valley — and incidentally, all the candidates the Herald endorses are pro-growth. Pure coincidence, of course.

If the Herald is for growth and development, I say that is their prerogative — fine. But if they don't want Miller to get elected on the basis of the fact that he is anti-growth and concerned about the environment, they should say so in a truthful, straightforward way. I deplore the devious methods they are using. Haven't the American people had enough of this kind of trickery with Haldeman and Erlichman?

I went down to the Herald and told them I didn't want to do cartoons. I told them my conscience wouldn't let me. They had to go out of the valley to get their cartoonist. I despise the rotten way the Herald has of making a man look "a little ridiculous" by picturing him with a plunger on his head. I think it's vile and vicious. The May 19 editorial says that Don Miller is all the fault of Don Miller. That analogy is as stupid as saying that there is a crime wave in Livermore because the Pleasanton Police Chief is doing his job too well, hence forcing criminals to operate in Livermore.

Today's editorial is another piece of trash. The Herald's idea of "team spirit" is a whole slate of "yes men" who will agree to anything the developers have in mind to make this valley one big smoggy metropolis.

Why doesn't the Herald and News just come out and admit that they are pushing for a crowded valley so that can increase circulation and advertising revenues? I'm submitting my cartoon to you for publication with a title that Don Miller, himself, suggested, "We Don't Cotton to Carpetbaggers Around Here!"

Maxine and her garden royalty at the Fair

The "Zucchini Lady" of Livermore can feed 12 people for 60 cents!

Maxine Plastino, of zucchini fame, will be giving demonstrations in the Home Arts Department of the Alameda County Fair in Pleasanton during its June 27 to July 11 run.

Mrs. Plastino further states, "I can show you how to cut your grocery bill by 25 per cent."

How does she propose to perform these feats? By utilizing zucchini. "The King of the Garden." According to Mrs. Plastino, zucchini, which can be easily grown in your own backyard, is the only vegetable which is 100 per cent compatible with all fruits, vegetables, meats, fish and fowl.

"No matter what you pick up at the grocery store, you can be positive nothing will be in conflict. One-quarter of your shopping is done — it's in your backyard," she notes, adding, "Fifty per cent is in the growing, the other 50 per cent is what you do with it."

Two plants will feed the average family, picking the vegetables every other day. Although Mrs. Plastino uses five different varieties in her recipes, now compiled in a book entitled "Zucchini Time," the majority of her recipes utilize a variety of the common black zucchini, "Green Prince," or "ball bats" as she has dubbed the larger specimens.

Other varieties used are yellow crook neck squash, banana squash, butternut squash and white summer squash.

In addition to demonstrating a seven-course meal prepared with zucchini, she has entered a special, non-competitive display, "Fair Time is Zucchini Time," which consists of 27 different canned fruits and vegetables all using zucchini as one of the main components.

Two of her favorite baked recipes are Italian Appetizer and Chocolate Zucchini Cake.

No super sewer

Editor, The Times:

At a candidate's night in Dublin I was surprised to find ex-councilman Miller echoing my apprehension about joining the East Bay Dischargers in their "super sewer" to the Bay. In the past Livermore's representatives on LAVWMA have voted to join this project. Miller's answer that they bowed to the wishes of higher agencies or other bureaucracies is unacceptable. There was never any hesitation on his part to fight a contractor in court (if necessary) to get top soil replaced, or to threaten a private citizen if his fence was too close to the sidewalk, or to confiscate "open house" signs that were in the public right-of-way.

Could it be that, although he voices opposition to the pipeline, his unwillingness to fight is somehow tied to prolonging the time when real solutions will be found and reasonable growth may begin?

Personally, I reject the "super sewer" concept because it closes off options for future generations. Furthermore, it literally flushes away the millions of dollars we have spent to treat and distribute our drinking water and to reclaim our sewage. I say that if we have to spend any money at all it should be spent to store and recycle our water. I'm against spending $30 million to pipe it to the Bay.

America has awakened to the need for conservation. Let's begin in our valley by finding a better way to use our reclaimed water than to mix it with San Francisco's raw sewage in the bottom of the Bay.

The only disaster

Editor, The Times:

This letter is in response to the editorial by Patricia Davis which appeared in your paper on May 21.

Ms. Davis stated that plutonium is radioactive waste material and that one pound of it represents the potential for nine billion human lung cancers. The fact of the matter is plutonium is not waste but recovered for reuse in the nuclear fuel cycle. For nine billion people to acquire lung cancer the plutonium would have to be finely divided and somehow dispersed in a lung of each individual. Experience has shown that this cannot happen. Atmospheric testing of nuclear weapons prior to 1975 has put 13,000 pounds of plutonium into the environment. Plutonium has been handled in the weapons program for 30 years by over 16,000 people, none of whom has experienced adverse health effects from it. Plutonium is a potentially dangerous substance and must be handled with care. However, there are many other hazardous, non-radioactive substances on earth, such as botulinus toxin, arsenic, strychnine, cyanides, etc. And, unlike plutonium, they don't decay away with time.

The only nuclear disaster California is likely to see would be the passage of Proposition 15.

Letter of explanation

School district sheds light

Editor, The Times:

Open letter to Ray Young

We would like to thank you for raising some questions about the Amador Valley Joint Union High School District and the Pleasanton Joint School District. This gives us the opportunity to respond to questions that people have on their minds. We often are in a position of discussing schools and school finances, but people are not always in the position to ask us questions about this. Therefore, again, we would like to thank Mr. Young for raising some good questions.

Mr. Young raised the question about the tax rates if the election were successful. In the Pleasanton School District if the election is successful, the facts are as follows: For 1975-76, the K-12 school tax is 5.950, total tax 13.137 and percentage of total 45.3 per cent. For 1976-77, the K-12 school tax is 6.630, total tax 13.817, and percentage of total 48 per cent. The respective figures for 1977-78 are 7.200, 14.387, and 50.1 per cent, and for 1978-79, 7.380, 14.567, and 50.7 per cent.

The election is related only to the K-12 program, and Mr. Young included in his computations $.662 for the community college and $.233 for the county schools special education program. The actual percentage that your total tax rate would increase over the previous year would be: 1976-77, 5.2 per cent; 1977-78, 4.1 per cent; and 1978-79, 1.2 per cent.

This is a three-year increase in your total tax rate of 10.9 per cent. This three-year increase of 10.9 per cent appears small when compared with the last three years consumer price index increase of 27.8 per cent.

Mr. Young also raised some other questions that we would like to take this opportunity to respond to.

1) There are only 28.5 "administrative positions" at the school district administrative building if you include the custodian, not the 45-46 stated. It might be interesting to note that the percentage increase, district administrative and clerical personnel, is over 50 per cent less than the percentage increase in the student population. It might also be pointed out that the Amador - Pleasanton districts rank in the bottom three districts in Alameda County in terms of administrative costs.

2) Driver Education is a state-funded program (a program that does not depend on the local property taxpayer), that comes very close to paying for itself. The school district deeply appreciates the cooperation of the local dealers.

3) Mr. Young raised the question of administrative and support staff in each one of the schools (The district includes a by-school breakdown which it terms a "modest level of administrative-support staff for the complexities of modern school.")

4) The school bus program is reimbursed by the State at approximately a 40 to 48 per cent level. The question of busing was discussed extensively this past fall and many people indicated busing was a necessity.

5) There are 12 counselors and three clerks for the entire Amador Valley Joint High School District, with almost 5,000 students. The Pleasanton Joint School District has four counselors and no clerical support for over 5,000 students.

6) In the high school district the summer school receives $148,000 in excess of what it costs to operate the program, while the elementary district receives $102,000. These monies help support the regular school program during the rest of the year. We would also like to point out that neither school district maintains classes for very small numbers of students for summer school. In fact, if a class enrollment does not come up to a minimum level, that class is dropped.

The Boards of Trustees and the Administration all know that it will cost more money to the local taxpayers. However, when you put it in perspective the most valuable community resource — our youth — deserve the benefits of a continued fine education. We ask you to consider the accurate facts, weigh the alternative, then make your decision. We feel that you will conclude, as we have, that a "yes" vote on A and B are vital and necessary to maintain our schools.

They all moved by, between school bands and a truckload full of angels ("The Ultimate Good Time," said the sign) and cannibals making blonde - lady stew, in the Bay Area's most unconventional parade.

It was radio station KNBR's third annual Good Times Parade, more outrageous than ever with 240 entries from bars in Modesto, realtors in Dublin, the Datsun "Z" Owners Club of Northern California and the ubiquitous Top Hatters with their bellies painted like faces.

Some 40,000 parade - lovers lined the downtown streets and rooftops, the smart ones planting their lounge chairs and picnic baskets at the curb and rubbing suntan oil into bared shoulders.

From the informal pace of the parade, they could tell it was going to be a long one...

The revelry was harmless —almost!

PLEASANTON — It was pretty much business as usual for police and fire department personnel during and after Sunday's "Good Times" parade, with crowds estimated at between 25,000 and 30,000.

Police reported six cars along the parade route were towed, one fight occurred during parade time, one purse was stolen, and two people were arrested for being drunk in public.

A fire department spokesman said there were two resuscitator calls, at the fairgrounds and at Main and West Angela streets during the parade, and a medical assist was reported at a local bar, but no serious injuries resulted, the spokesman said.

Cal students' run for the money

With a petition neatly tucked inside his baton, Steve West of California High School sped the final 110 yards into the San Ramon Valley Unified School District offices yesterday afternoon.

"Why?" asked West rhetorically. "Because this is important. There are no outdoor athletic facilities at California High."

West, Cal's student activities chairman, anchored a 75-member relay team that covered the seven miles from the school on Broadmoor Drive in San Ramon to Sycamore Valley Road in Danville to hand District Superintendent Alan Petersdorf the petition, signed by over 900 persons, pleading for more financial help for the three-year old school.

In a nutshell, the petition requests that, "all athletic fields at Cal High be completed by fall of 1976."

Willie Huff, student body president, explained, "All we're asking for is district financial help to complete our athletic fields. There have never been adequate facilities in San Ramon. Cal doesn't even feel like a high school.

"The kids have been deprived all through school."

He added, "We have enough support from the community. In fact, we have two separate petitions, one from the students and another from parents — there's even one from the faculty."

What money California has received for athletic ground improvements recently has come by way of donations from local businesses and organizations.

In review, the district apparently promised to follow up the original construction, discontinued at the end of the school's first year, 1974. However, no blueprints were drawn up and the SRVUSD seemingly dropped the task.

A major concern is the acquisition of bleacher seats for the proposed football field. According to West, the cost can be as much as $45,000.

A home for Cal's football team is a key element in developing school spirit, the students say. Earlier this school year, West surveyed 581 students on the question of the Grizzlies continuing to use San Ramon High's field as their football home.

As might be expected, 68 per cent turned down the idea.

Mike McGinnis, appointed head football coach this off-season, noted the SRVUSD plans to promote South Intermediate School and California's industrial arts shops before tackling the problem of athletic facilities.

While Petersdorf addressed about 120 Cal students in the conference room at the education center, McGinnis offered his view of the current field-less situation.

"Number one, it hurts the athletes," he said. "Number two, we lose some social contact. And, number three, we lose growth and learning aspects." He added, "Our kids can't even play in front of a San Ramon crowd. It's hard to maintain a program without a healthy gate. The kids need some kind of recognition to generate enthusiasm.

"As far as next season is concerned," McGinnis revealed, "We're prepared to use Monte Vista as a home field."

The first-year head coach concluded, "We have a good group of kids with a lot of potential. But, it's hard to play in areas like Los Gatos and Crockett all the time."

Initially the school board flatly denied Cal any financial help.

Huff summed up the students' feelings towards the district thusly, "All we want is to get the district to recognize the fact that we're lacking athletic facilities. We want to show how we're isolated in the San Ramon Valley."

"If this doesn't materialize," the muscular sprinter said, "I can tell you there'll be pressure from all sides."

As if to make an ironic comment on the school's facilities, a water main broke yesterday forcing the cancellation of all classes after 10 a.m.

Dons to face Gauchos Friday in NCS tourney

Amador Valley was named one of the four at-large schools for this week's North Coast Section baseball play-offs at a meeting in El Cerrito Sunday.

The Dons, again tied for eleventh in the East Bay Prep Writers baseball poll, join East Bay Athletic League champion Monte Vista in the NCS tourney.

Amador will pitch junior Rob Wicks in its opening game Friday against El Cerrito in San Rafael. Mike Garrigan or Mike Krikorian would pitch the second game should AV top the Gauchos.

Coach Don Bush was elated with the Dons' inclusion in the 16-team tournament.

"This means a little bit more than the Shasta tournament (where the Dons would have competed had the NCS berth not materialized)," he said. "The boys wanted it — it gives us a chance to go all the way."

That the Dons finished a game back of Monte Vista in the EBAL standings didn't faze the Amador coach.

"We had a good season, I wouldn't say we're backing in at all," he said.

Monte Vista will doubtless pitch ace righthander Gregg Goodman in their opener against Mt. Diablo, an at-large entry from the Diablo Valley Athletic League.

The Mustangs jumped a spot in this week's prep poll, going from fifth to fourth after beating rival San Ramon last Tuesday and blanking California in the pennant clincher Friday.

Which club will fill the EBAL's Shasta commitment has apparently not been decided. Although third-place Livermore and fourth-place California seem to be the logical choices, there is some doubt as to whether either can accept the bid.

A loss of water at Cal closed the school yesterday, thus no one in charge could be reached for comment. Cowboy coach Kevin Drake was also unavailable for comment.

Herndon, Dressler spur Giants

By DON ZUPAN

Maybe the San Francisco Giants have started a winning string, thanks to a pair of 22-year-olds.

Larry Herndon, who began Monday's game against Houston batting .419, upped it to .471 as he went three for three, including his first major league homer.

Righthander Rob Dressler, the other Giant youngster who excelled in the San Francisco 5-1 victory over the visiting Astros, pitched a seven-hitter in his eighth inning stint.

That reliable fireman, southpaw Gary Lavelle, mopped up in the ninth for Dressler, who joined the Giants late last week from the Phoenix farm club.

True, two straight victories aren't going to cause panic in the camp of the league - leading Los Angeles Dodgers. But for the Giants it's a turnaround of some magnitude. The Bay Area athletes haven't won two in succession in almost a month.

Bill Rigney's lads are still in the NL West cellar with a 14-27 mark. Southpaw Mike Caldwell, 0-4, hopes to break into the win column for SF tonight in an 8 o'clock meeting at Candlestick against J. R. Richard who is 5-4.

Dressler, a product of Portland, Ore., said, "I was very happy with the way I pitched today. I had a good defense behind me and the wind was blowing in which helped a lot. My fast ball did the job and my sinker ball was working too. The outfielders did a great job. I kept my cool today and tried to stay in control of the game. I made some good pitches early."

Dressler was greeted in his 1976 inaugural last Friday by Atlanta with a seven-run spurge in the initial inning. A fielding error on the first play of the game led to the Braves' outburst.

Herndon, sipping some champagne, said softly, "I don't hit a lot of home runs. The solo shot I got in the second off lefty Mike Cosgrove came off a fast ball."

He observed, "We've got a good team here, and maybe things will begin falling into place."

It's no secret the Giant front office is assessing all trade possibilities. But Herndon and Dressler don't figure to be packing their bags.

The SF triumph even prompted a little good-natured fun in the club's locker room. Shortstop Chris Speier hollered at a bearded Derrel Thomas, "Get in there and shave it off. We've won two in a row."

The Giants put three runs on the board in the opening inning to make Dressler's task considerably easier.

Herndon coaxed a walk as the leadoff hitter. He went to second on Thomas' infield out and to third on Speier's base hit to left. Bobby Murcer of the Giants got a Candlestick bounce on his ground ball to second, which took off just as Rob Andrews was getting ready to field it. That brought in Herndon with Speier moving to third. Gary Matthews hammered a ground rule double to center bringing home Speier. Then Kenny Reitz' sacrifice fly to left scored Murcer.

Herndon put a Cosgrove pitch over the left field fence with one out in the second. The Giants garnered their final run in the fifth. Matthews led off with a walk and trotted home when Willie Montanez' double to right and a subsequent error by outfielder Greg Gross gave him the green light.

Houston's lone run came in the second after two were out. Enos Cabell singled and stole second. He touched home plate when Skip Jutze grounded to Speier at short with Chris' throw to first arriving too late. The relay from first baseman Montanez to catcher Marc Hill was not in time.

Monday's victory was the Giants' eighth in 21 home appearances. It was a pity only 1,486 of the SF Faithful were on hand.

Angels tied for first

Wise leads Bosox win

Fisk singled in the fourth for Boston's first hit and eventually scored on a two-out single by Fred Lynn.

ter Yankees ripped the Bibery Coffee House Orioles, 21-5. Mike McGraw pitched five shutout innings to pick up the win, while Cary Shun had two hits in a losing cause.

The A's beat the Indians, 5-3. Bobby Butcher's double and Steve Shevey's single provided the win. George Cruz doubled and tripled for the losers. Chris Damoulos picked up the win.

The Angels blasted the Twins, 10-2. Top hitters were Sean Salisbury, Chuck Carson, Roland McLeod and David Moyer.

The Indians walloped the A's, 24-6. Mark Silva had four hits and Greg Smith a single for the winners, while Eric Thompson and Scott Munos paced the losers.

Todd Gould's double and Chris Rudloff's two hits carried the Orioles by the Yankees, 12-7. Jeff Stobaugh picked up the win, while the losers' hitting attack consisted of Jeff Fowler (3 hits) Darryl Ramos (2 hits) and Dana Roberts (double).

In 2A action, the Red Sox topped the Twins, 20-11. Byron Young went 6-for - 6, while Phil Costello also hit well. David Humphrey and Brian Dantzie led the losers.

The A's edged the Indians, 13-12. Mike Manes and Craig Fawcett had the key hits, Manes a homer and six RBIs. Darren Vassiss also singled.

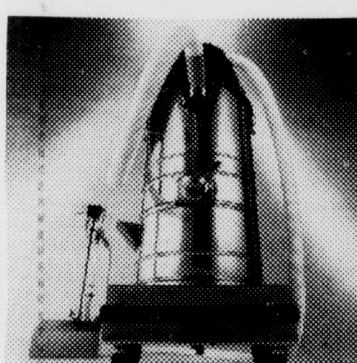

The Yankees nipped the Orioles, 8-7. David Armstrong, Bobby Rowell and John Orlando all came through with key hits.
